SGA/Knights Council Graduates

The Student Government Association (SGA) serves as a vital link of communication between students, administration and faculty. It works to provide the leadership necessary for the responsibility of initiating new policies, services and activities for the benefit of the students. The Knights Council is the Executive Branch of Student Government. Students must apply and be recommended by a faculty member to serve. Knights Council members attend leadership training and seminars throughout the year to develop their skills.

THE ALUMNI PLEDGE

I am a graduate of Danville Community College. I have achieved graduation through my own hard work and dedication and the support of my family, friends, and faculty. I am now a member of the Danville Community College Alumni Association. In this capacity, I have earned the privilege of a mutually beneficial and lasting relationship with the college and its community. Today, I move forward to embrace new opportunities and to meet the challenges that lie ahead. But as I do, I also recognize that my Danville Community College experience will remain forever an important part of my life. The opportunity of a Danville Community College education confers upon me a responsibility to help ensure the continued strength of this great institution. I will not forget this responsibility. I am a graduate of Danville Community College.
Graduation Traditions

Academic Procession and Regalia
The academic procession is steeped in a long tradition dating back to the Middle Ages when students and scholars marched in ceremonies whenever a student accomplished his course of study. Traditionally, the graduation marshal is the most senior member of the faculty. Today, we have only one ceremony for graduates, but we wear regalia similar to those worn in the Middle Ages. Professors and students studied in poorly heated buildings, so long, warm robes and hoods were very useful. The distinctive hoods and doctoral robes were used to set the faculty apart from the students. These were worn every day at most colleges and universities until the 1860s.

Traditionally, undergraduates wear only the black robes. Bachelor’s and master’s hoods have the colors of the university which awarded the degree on the inside. The color border which represents the teaching field is around the edge of the hood. The bachelor’s and master’s hoods are similar except the master’s sleeves are fuller. The doctoral hoods are longer and the bands of colors wider. The doctoral robes may be black or a color that the university designates. The robes also have velvet in the front from hem to neck, and three bands of velvet on the sleeves -- the velvet bands are in the color of the teaching field or may be black. Certain universities use a tam instead of the traditional mortarboard, but all people with doctorates wear a gold tassel.

Faculty marshals traditionally wear a sash to distinguish them from the rest of the participants.

The Mace
The mace of silver and walnut has its history in antiquity, first as a weapon, then as a symbol of royalty and a sign of authority. The mace, a club-like staff, is now traditionally carried by the Faculty Marshal as a symbol of the professor’s role and preeminence at modern institutions of higher education. The mace recognizes DCC’s beginnings, as Danville Textile School (1936 - 1941), Danville Technical Institute (1941-1967) and the Danville Branch of Virginia Tech (1946 - 1968) -- these names are inscribed on the bands. The silver figure at the top carries the torch of knowledge.

The mace is to be carried by the Faculty Marshal at each ceremony in which academic regalia is present.
